Visual identity
guidelines

Introduction

The aim of these design guidelines is to uphold the values and appearance of a visual identity for ODI as a leading commercial law firm in Adriatic region. The guidelines offer well-defined rules about the appearance and application of all aspects of the ODI's visual identity.

However, to allow for the development of the brand and creative direction, flexibility has been incorporated into the guidelines. Good design requires good designers. The first guideline, therefore, is to work with a good designer. The effectiveness of any visual identity is dependent on how well it is used and an attention to detail.

These visual identity guidelines are one part of a comprehensive branding and marketing programme being developed to create a strong and recognisable brand for ODI.

Logotype

Exclusion zone

When the logotype is used by itself, space around the logotype will ensure visibility and impact.

A protective area or exclusion zone around the logotype prevents the encroachment of any graphic elements such as type, images and other logos from interfering with the integrity of the mark.

Where possible, allow even more space around the logo.

Space is determined by using a measurement of thirds. The minimum exclusion zone should be an extra third in the height of the logo.

Logotype

For monotoes and images

When using the ODI logotype on top of monotoes or images, care must be taken to ensure legibility is optimised through maximum colour contrast.

Colour palette

ODI Red is the core colour of the ODI brand.

It should be used for the logotype whenever possible.

The colour palette comes from a mix of strategic business ODI brand colours (red, black, white).

A solid red background with a vertical black line running down the right side, separating the red area from the white area.

Typography

Primary typeface: Univers Condensed

The font family Univers™ is one of the greatest typographic achievements of the second half of the 20th century. The family has the advantage of having a variety of weights and styles, which, even when combined, give an impression of steadiness and homogeneity. The clear, objective forms of Univers make this a legible font suitable for almost any typographic need. In 1954 the French type foundry Deberny & Peignot wanted to add a linear sans serif type in several weights to the range of the Lumitype fonts. Adrian Frutiger, the foundry's art director, suggested refraining from adapting an existing alphabet. He wanted to instead make a new font that would, above all, be suitable for the typesetting of longer texts - quite an exciting challenge for a sans-serif font at that time. Starting with his old sketches from his student days at the School for the Applied Arts in Zurich, he created the Univers type family. In 1957, the family was released by Deberny & Peignot, and afterwards, it was produced by Linotype. The Deberny & Peignot type library was acquired in 1972 by Haas, and the Haas'sche Schriftgiesserei (Haas Type Foundry) was folded into the D. Stempel AG/Linotype collection in 1985/1989. Adrian Frutiger continues to do design work with Linotype right up to the present day. In 1997, Frutiger and the design staff at Linotype completed a large joint project of completely re-designing and updating the Univers family. The result: Linotype Univers - available with 59 weights and 4 Linotype Univers Typewriter weights. With its sturdy, clean forms Univers can facilitate an expression of cool elegance and rational competence.
